The Tide and Current

Springing Into Action This Semester

So far, this semester has been packed with exciting experiences. Starting with ENS Spears' commissioning, the battalion held GySgt Bennett's promotion ceremony and hosted SgtMaj Kreamer for a lab. The battalion also traveled to the University of Colorado, competing in the drill, color guard, knowledge, shooting, and endurance race events. We're looking forward to finishing the last few weeks strong!

A Message from the UNL NROTC Commander

CAPT Scott Bowman

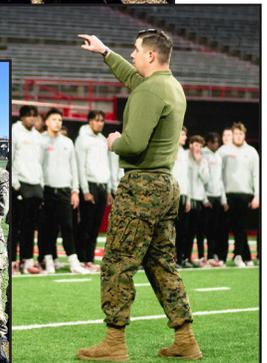

Since Ensign Spears' commissioning in December, the battalion has embarked on an aggressive trajectory of training and readiness. From engaging in competitive academics to rigorous physical training, we've achieved notable milestones such as earning 2nd place at the annual Colorado Drill Meet and training alongside the Husker football team. I am immensely proud of the dedication exhibited by our members and eagerly anticipate our three commissions scheduled for this May, as well as a packed summer training schedule ahead.

Go Big Red!

The MIDN Battalion Commander's Statement

MIDN I/C Peyton Weigand

I am extremely proud of our accomplishments this semester, especially our performance at this year's Colorado Drill Meet. Moreover, I commend the midshipmen for their seamless transition and support during our relocation from the Military and Naval Science Building to the Old Health Center. Their adaptability and resilience in overcoming various challenges show their commitment to the success of our unit. The Midshipmen show time and time again that they strive to be the best they can be, and I can ask for nothing more as their Battalion Commander.

Thank you to all who support UNL NROTC program!
